Twenty three years ago, a group of lawyers here in Baltimore took a small—but meaningful—step. They started a program, which they called Law Links, that would bridge two populations... Baltimore City high school students and the Baltimore City legal community. Twenty three years later, 828 city high school students have taken a step in the right direction with the help of many, really terrific, Law Links supporters. We want to wish the Class of 2017, and all those who came before them, the very best!
